Freedom of the press is the matrix, the indispensible condition of all other freedoms.

--Justice Cardozo

NOW-NOW-NOW

4-H Week in Milam County, October 3-0, is a good time to see the splendid work going on here for young people in town and country.

Hundreds of youngsters are involved in 4-H work, boys and girls, young men and women, of every race and creed. And that work is for tomorrow, having at the same time considerable bearing on how things go today.

Youth has a lower voting age, beginning at the 18th birthday. Some are physically and mentally mature, but emotionally immature even past the former minimum voting age of 21.

But youth programs requiring a sense of responsibility, of excellence, of competition, like 4-H and several youth programs in Milam County, prepare these younger people, these youth leaders today and world leaders tomorrow, for whatever may occur.

Tremendous effort is going into youth programs like 4-H, FFA, Boy and Girl Scouts in the Milam area. And adults working with these youngsters realize what is possible when they see the energy and insight of the young, which the older by being older may have forgotten.

NOW-NOW-NOW

At the same time, youthful leadership has moved into many if not of all of these youth programs. And things are happening throughout the spectrum of Milam government, industry, civic, cultural and social development. It seems a part of an involvement which is bringing about historic changes in the Milam Area.

Statistics of all kinds support this. Employment, development, planning, action have never been at a higher level in this century of Milam history.

Leadership of all these movements, 4-H among them, is the reason. We can debate why things happen or why they don't, whether it is the time, or the group need, or the individual performance. But it is, in fact, happening in town and country in Milam County.

We asked in a school controversy editorially about a year ago: "What Of The Child?" Performance in these programs is the answer. And that answer is progress, individual development, a sense of direction that is the exception this day, rather than the rule.

Enthusiasm is contagious. We see it in 4-H. We see in all the other sweeping realization of long-held dreams in the Milam community. And who would want it any other way?

Police Warn City Walkers

He said tickets would be issued for obstructing traffic to persons walking in the traffic lanes.

In other police news, Refugio Banda was arrested by Cameron police and charged with the burglary of the Hilltop Cafe Sunday night.

Chief Martinez and patrolman Ken Butler investigated the robbery. Change was taken from the cash register and the juke box and some beer was also taken.

The $2 million appropriation for the San Gabriel Dam included in the Public Works appropriations is on its way to the president, according to a telegram from Cong. J. J. Pickle. The House and Senate approved conference reports on the bill, and it is now up to President Nixon, the congressman said.

Belton Reservoir To Rise

BELTON

All work has been completed to begin the 25 foot level rise of water in Belton reservoir. The increase in conservation pool level to 594 feet above sea level, requested more than 10 years ago by the Brazos River Authority, will expand the surface acreage of the lake from 7,400 to 12,300 feet.

BRA Grant Approved

TEMPLE

The Environmental Protection Agency has approved a $1,518,440 grant to the Brazos River Authority (BRA) for assistance in the construction of a regional sewage treatment plant for Temple and Belton. The grant represents about half of the estimated $3 million cost of the project. State and local funds will be used to pay the remainder of the project cost.

Work Continues On School

ROSEBUD

Painters at the Rosebud-Lott Advanced Learning Center are spraying the finish coating on the exterior of the buildings, wiring for the new school's communications center is going in, and air conditioning ducts are being installed inside. Builders hope to have the new school ready for occupancy by mid-December.

S. Milam United Fund Climbs

ROCKDALE

With drive completion expected during this week, the campaign total for the South Milam County United Fund stood at $10,227 Wednesday. Budget is $19,175.

County Red Cross Gives Personal Help

(Another in a series about United Fund agencies served by the local fund drive. The drive is starting this week, and goal is $10,400.)

The American Red Cross, which has been allocated $2,300 in the United Fund budget, works on a local level with the local money.

Telephone calls and telegrams, most of them contacts made for servicemen and their families, are paid out of local funds, contributed in United Fund drives.

Less than half, or about 46 percent of local funds are sent to the National American Red Cross program. This money is used for disaster relief in instances such as hurricanes, tornadoes, or floods.

Cost of the vital blood program to the county Red Cross unit is about 12 1/2 cents per capita, based on the census. This amounted to $1781 during the blood year, July 1, 1970 through June 30, 1971.

The cost is for collecting and processing blood donated by countians, and for replacing blood used by patients in out-of-region hospitals.

During the last blood year blood usage in the county totaled 614 units. Breakdown of this total shows St. Edward Hospital using 99 units, Newton Memorial using 75, and Richards Hospital at Rockdale using 149. In addition, 291 units were used for residents or their relatives in out-of-region hospitals.

Other services extended through the local Red Cross include emergency loans to servicemen who may have to fly home and return to their stations. Most of these loans are paid back, but a few always have to be written off.

United Fund workers are contacting businesses and the house to house drive is being held today (Monday).

Entomology Team Sparks County 4-H

By Danny Phillips, ACAA

Milam County has had several winning judging teams in the past, but last year Milam County had a most unusual judging team. The team was a "Bug Judging" team or an entomology team in more sophisticated terms.

The purpose of an entomology team is actually fourfold. The program helps 4-H'er learn the life history and habits of insects and the relation of insects to modern living, to learn to recognize the major insect pests and beneficial insects common to the area, to learn about insecticides and their uses and their effects on ecology and to develop leadership talents and work toward achieving character and effective leadership.

Team members included Rebecca Riola, Peter Riola and Barbara Winkler. They are all members of the Cameron 4-H Club. The team was organized in the fall of 1970 and then started studying about insects and insecticides. They used slides, books, actual specimens, and special materials developed by the Extension Service in the training.

A team is composed of three or four members. If four members are used, then the low scorer becomes the alternate. The contest consists of two parts. The first part is the identification of 25 mounted insects. Only the common name of the insects is required.

The second part of the contest is a one hour examination on insects and insecticides. A total of 100 questions are given and the test are then graded and averaged with the other half of the exam.

Last year, in the district 4-H contests at Stephenville, the Milam County Team placed first in the junior division. The team could not go to the state contests, because they were a junior age team and only senior teams, age 14-19, are eligible for the state contests. Rebecca Riola was high point member of the team and high point individual for the junior contest.

Tax Notices Going Out

Milam County Tax Assessor - Collector Valter White put 21,218 state and county tax notices in the mail Friday in time for delivery October 2.

Included in the tax notices will be applications for voter registration.

The voter applications should be completed in full and returned to the tax office for a person to become a registered voter in 1972.

White emphasized that the applications should be filled out before coming to the tax office to pay in person, or returning the application by mail.

One of the tax office workers biggest headaches is the application filled out except for the precinct number. "If you don't know your precinct number, just write down the place where you voted last time," White said.

A husband or wife may complete application for registration for the other, or a mother, father, son or daughter may act as agent for the voter.

Voter registration applications may be requested by mail or in person from the county tax office.

By paying early, taxpayers get a 3 percent discount in October, a 2 percent discount in November and a 1 percent discount in December.

Saturday, October 9, Buckholts;
Tuesday, October 12, Davilla;
Friday, October 15, Rockdale;
Tuesday, October 19, Gause;
Friday, October 22, Thorndale.

CISD TAXES

About 6,500 notices were mailed out by Cameron Independent School District tax office for a total of $263,880.66 in taxes.

CITY TAXES

City Tax notices were also mailed out last week on evaluations totaling $7,615,231 for taxes of $125,651.31.

Won't You Be Generous?

The annual United Fund drive is underway and it is an opportunity to give to Scouting, both Boys and Girls, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Little League, Day Care Center and Community Center.

These are service organizations of local importance, several of which are purely local for local people.

The value of the Red Cross blood program and Salvation Army work with the unfortunate is legend. And Scouting work with youngsters grows all the time in North Milam County.

Cameron and Milam County are in ascendency and there is no reason support for Cameron United Fund should be less than 100 percent.

Workers are making calls this week toward a $10,400 goal. Won't you be generous?

In Less Than A Decade...

The quarterly sales tax refund from the state was $15,990.12, or about 12 percent more than the same quarter refund of a year ago totalling $14,802.65.

This is another sign that things are moving even while we are tearing old things down. It is a certainty when sales tax increases about 12 percent in a city and when employment is only 2.4 percent away from 100 percent, that things are moving well.

We only regret that views of the prior quarter century prevailed to where drastic measures had to be taken to turn the community upward again. But it was a cycle to be reversed.

It is a good time to realize that incisive hard-hitting, progressive leadership has remade the future of Cameron in less than a decade.

Japanese Businessmen Tackle China Relations

By Masayuki Tatsuts

TOKYO

Japanese businessmen appear to have moved ahead of the government in tackling the problem of normalising relations between Japan and China.

A senior Chinese government representative who visited Tokyo last month spurned talks with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and other key officials, but had long meetings with leading businessmen.

As a result a number of top business missions to China are being planned for later this year, with politics as much on the agenda as business deals.

Kiroki Imazato managing director of the Japan Federation of Employers' Association, said this move was helped by the visit to Japan in August of Wang Kuo-Chan, Vice chairman of the China-Japan Friendship Association.

Wang came to Tokyo for the funeral of a senior politician of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP).

In talks with the Chinese officials, business leaders expressed their readiness to adhere to China's so-called five principles for peace in promoting closer ties, Imazato said.

As outlined by Premier Chou En Lai, these call for mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty, mutual non-aggression, mutual non-intervention in internal affairs, equality and reciprocity, and peaceful co-existence.

Imazato said Wang accpeted the business leaders' proposal that China and Japan promote an interchange of personnel.

There are plans in business circles to send fact-finding missions to China to exchange views on problems involving normalisation of Sito-Japanese relations prior to expansion of bilateral trade.

A 20-member team, organized by business leaders in western Japan, was scheduled to visit Peking September 15.

Another mission, to be led by Kazutaka Kikawada, president of the Japan Committee for Economic Development, is being organized by Imazato to visit Peking this autumn.

Shiego Nagano, president of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and industry and board chairman of Nippon Steel Corporation, is also expected to join the proposed mission if the Chinese accept him.

Imazato said Nagano so far had been regarded as a leading supporter of the Sato government, which is frequently attacked by the Peking leadership as being hostile to China.

However, he believed China would accept Nagano's visit as he had been able to meet Wang in August.

Nippon steel is barred at present from China trade because of its refusal to accept a statement of principles by Premier Chou barring Japanese firms which actively deal with Taiwan or South Korea, cooperate with the U.S. or aid the Vietnam War.

But Nagano recently announced his company now accepted the principles and hoped to resume trading with China in the near future.

A record number of 2,350 businessmen representing 1,135 Japanese companies are expected to take part in the Canton Autumn trade fair opening October 15. The fair, held in spring and autumn each year, is the principal channel through which China conducts trade with non-communist countries.

NO PUNISHMENT

Hong Kong, Reuter - A top police official here claims the colony's correctional centers for violent young criminals offer a far higher standard of living than he normally enjoys in everyday life. He said that probation and training centers offering television, football, and pipe bands were not regarded as punishment by many young offenders.

OLD COINS FOUND

Moscow, Reuter - Well over 100 pounds of copper coins were found by a school boy in Novgorod, some 112 miles south of Leningrad. He found them in a huge jar while playing in a cornfield. Experts at the Novgorod Museum date the coins from the 18th century.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Sleep and Learn?

Mankind has long been intrigued by the possibility of developing ways and means of learning while sleeping; and now scientists at the University of Florida have reported studies that they say represent the first clearcut evidence of some possibility that this can be done.

In the studies, high school and college students tried to learn 12 pairs of Russian/English nouns while asleep. None of the students had any prior knowledge of Russian, and the pairs of nouns used had been shown to have a zero chance of being guessed correctly.

Just before the students fell asleep on two "adaptation" nights, a "conditioning" tape was played. It began:

"You know that your ability to learn while you are asleep depends entirely on your willingness to cooperate . . . it will be very easy for you to learn to fall into a very deep sleep and you will learn. . . ."

Following this, five nights were devoted to actual sleep learning. Before a recording of the pairs of nouns was played, the sleeping students "heard" these words:

"This is your Russian teacher . . . you are asleep and relaxed and you can hear my voice and you will not wake up . . . you will remember these words and their meanings forever. . . ."

The students then heard the "training" tapes for five nights. In one part of the study, the average recall over all nights for deep sleep learning was approximately 13 percent. When the students heard the tapes during light sleep late in the night, their scores ranged from 12 percent to 30 percent retention.

The pattern of scores over the five nights indicated that the ability to learn while asleep improves with training and practice. Although we are a long way from the science fiction portrayals of people getting a complete education while sleeping, this research does add to our knowledge about the mind and sleep.

The work was supported by HEW's National Institute of Mental Health, Health Services and Mental Health Administration, under a special small grant program to foster pilot studies along interesting avenues of science and to encourage younger scientists in mental health research.

World Traveling Dentist Sees People As They Are

By Susan Poyas
Reuter Correspondent

EL ARISH, SIANI DESERT

A young American has temporarily given up the air-conditioned comfort of his dental practice in Athens, Georgia, for the searing heat of the desert to look after the dental problems of Bedouin tribesmen.

At work he is protected by two soldiers toting submachineguns.

Globetrotting dentist Dr. Barry Simmons, 34, has spent the last eight summers pulling teeth out the world over, and this year chose the Sinai Desert.

Word spread quickly from one encampment to another. An American dentist was pulling out bad teeth, free and painlessly. For many it was the first time they had ever seen a dentist.

But, like the surroundings, his surgery was extremely primitive -- a simple portable dentist chair planted under a tree to obtain some shade from the 100 degree heat.

Although working in a sensitive area, occupied by Israeli forces in the 1967 war, Simmons was not aware of the dangers continuously facing him.

"Most of the time I thought the two soldiers who accompanies me were superfluous, but about two weeks ago, 10 minutes after I had parted from a local Arab doctor, he was attacked by Arab guerrillas who hurled a hand grenade at him," Simmons said. "He lost an arm and a leg."

Only this incident finally convinced him that his personal two-man guard was really justified.

Asked what makes a young bachelor with a successful practice at home spend his summer abroad working without pay, the doctor answered, "I have to help others. I also have a wish to see the peoples of the world as they really are."

"It is possible to travel around the world, moving from jet plane to Hilton Hotel, repeating the process, time after time -- without really ever leaving America. The guests there are either Americans or Americanized foreigners," he added.

Simmons said his travels have confirmed this theory that it is possible to communicate with people even when the only words you can say in their language is, "Open your mouth."

He likes to get out among the local people, who are unable to tell him "thank you" but who show by their gestures, by their eyes, that they really mean it.

Simmons has already worked in a leper colony in east Africa and with villagers in Asia and the South Sea Islands. It all started in 1963 when he launched his "work-through-summer abroad" project during these summer "holidays" he has travelled to his patients by jeep, canoe, banana boat and even by elephant.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Schigut's Now Offers Singer Dept

Schigut's in Cameron has a reputation for good clothing, but the department store has added in a new department, the only one in the Milam area.

It is a sales and service department for the famous Singer Sewing Machines, one of the best known household lines in the world.

John Schigut, manager and store owner, is taking as much an impotant role in the new department as Mrs. Lottie Witt, Mrs. Louise Butler and Mrs. Frieda Smith whose sales experience in clothing and piece goods help in advising what equipment is best for making one's own clothes, curtains and whatever a Singer Sewing machine can do, which is a lot.

Schigut's features a line of Singer machines in a department near the front of the downtown Cameron store. And any model not demonstrated or on display is quickly available through Singer sources at Schigut's.

Schigut's also assures service by Marshall Flores who lives in Cameron and has a number of years experience in maintenance and repair of sewing equipment.

The name Singer is not new to Cameron. It has been 119 years since Singer started manufacturing sewing machines, the first models foot-powered instruments only a remote cousin to the ultra-modern equipment now sold at Schigut's.

"Touch and Sew" is a familiar word for the new Model 750 Singer, "Golden Touch & Sew". Its simplicity, versatility and ease of operation is tops and typical of the whole range of Singer sewing equipment.

Other models are in the Touch and Sew line, including Model 756 Special Zig-Zag, the Zig-Zag and the Deluxe Straight Stitch Touch & Sew.

These machines do it all, when it comes to sewing.

But, of course, the Golden Touch & Sew is the only model which has all the features of the 1971 line, including:

--Both built-in and interchangeable Fashion Discs, which produce almost unlimited variety of practical and decorative stitches.

--Flexi-Stitch Discs that produce stretchable stitches for knits and stretch fabrics plus intricate stitch designs, including hemstitching, feather stitching.

--One way needle clamp that makes it impossible to insert the needle backwards.

--Two kinds of temporary stitching for speed basting or chainstitching for growth tucks and removeable trims.

--Two speed motor with a fast speed range for seams and slower range for precision control.

Drugs By The Department Is The Story At Dusek's

When you say pharmacy, you mean three registered pharmacists -- Alvin and son Bernay, and Franklyn Dusek.

Dusek's has it.

Several ladies are kept busy serving the customers who find what they want.

Just a sampling of what brands are available: Timex watches, Westclox, clocks, Parke-Davis first aid notions, Sheaffer's pens, BIC pens, Foster Grant sunglasses, Russell Stover and King's chocolates.

Cosmetics, both men's and women's, headline shelves of name brands like: Black Belt, Max Factor, Old Spice, Tussy, Coty's Elan, L'Zimant, Imprevu, Emeraude, Revlon, Ogilvie, Jergens, Aqua Velva to name a few of the quite-a-few.

Pharmacists Alvin, Franklyn and Bernay stay busy. One clerk helps type orders as the prescriptions are filled by the professionals. Lines of shelves in walls of pharmaceuticals await the need of a doctor's prescription, whatever the ill.

Delivery is to the home, without additional cost, the day you need the prescription. The Pharmacy is as professional as gifts and drugs throughout the store are complete.

The usual line of tobacco products, cigars, cigarettes, pipes, pipe tobacco are near the entrance for convenience.

Magazines, newspapers, comics and pocketbooks are available. Christmas and remembrance cards for all occasions by Ambassador and Rust Craft await.

Personal articles are also near the front, neatly arranged and gift items like Sunbeam appliances are nearby. Gift items like ashtrays, kitchen bric-a-brac, personal items and notions of all kinds are there.

Yes, Dusek's has it. Only in recent years, the operation expanded into a wider store and the pharmacy department and storage areas were completely remodeled.

An inventory of brand names and professional pharmacy services are the name of the game.

That's why Dusek's has it for pharmaceuticals and departmentalized drugs and notions.

Tokyo Slowly Sinking As Gas, Water Is Pumped Out

By Ikuo Anai
Reuter Correspondent

TOKYO

Tokyo, which is already suffering from pollution and overcrowding, is also sinking slowly beneath sea level.

Official surveys have warned that the already considerable ground subsidence in Tokyo and its surrounding areas will accelerate unless factories and gas companies stop pumping out underground water and natural gas.

The Tokyo metropolitan government says subsidence has now been recorded in 60 per cent of the land occupied by the world's largest city.

Five per cent is constantly below sea level already, and this rises to 20 per cent at high tide.

Although embankments and floodgates protect the capital's below-sea level areas, all of which have a high population density, experts fear a heavy loss of life should there be a large earthquake resulting in abnormal tides.

Ground at the mouth of the river area, which flows through the capital into Tokyo Bay, has been sinking on an average of 7.26 inches a year, according to official surveys conducted over the past few years.

This has resulted in subterranean water becoming more saline and unfit for many uses.

Officials say, however, that because the subsidence has been uniform, there has been no sign so far of any damage to buildings or to underground facilities such as gas and water pipes.

Serious subsidence has also been found in cities on the outskirts of Tokyo such as Ichikawa and Funabashi, where a total of 32 wells are now pumping out more than 11,000 cubic meters of natural gas a day, in addition to much larger quantities of suberranean water.

In Funabashi, subsidence of 9.3 inches was recorded last year. Residential areas on the nearby Tokyo Bay have become progressively more prone to flooding at extra high tides.

The China prefectural government said gas companies had voluntarily reduced their pumping operations by an average of 22 per cent, resulting in a significant decrease of the subsidence rate.

Official figures for the past eight years show that land in Funabashi has sunk 49.25 inches, 35.46 inches in Ichikawa, and 34.67 inches in Urayasu, part of Ichikawa City which is almost entirely reclaimed land.

The sinking was spotted as early as 1925 but has rapidly increased in the past two decades, officials said.

Railways and stations are also sinking and trains on one line now run over a bridge that is less than three feet above the water at high tide.

Petrified Forest Luring Tourists

FLORA, Miss.

Tucked away in uplands above the Mississippi delta country lies a place of fascination -- the only petrified forest in the eastern United States.

Known to exist since the middle of the 19th century, only within the past few years has it been developed and opened to the public.

Located three miles from the hamlet of Flora, in Mississippi's Madison County, the primeval collection -- dating back 36 million years -- is easily reached via the state's major highways.

The 40-acre petrified forest tract is privately owned. A national registered natural landmark since 1966, it is one of the very few privately owned sites to have this recognition by the National Park Service.

The U.S. Department of the Interior's advisory board has stated that the site should be preserved as an oustanding specimen of the nation's natural history.

The adult admission is one dollar. Visitors receive a printed guide describing each of the 27 locations of stone logs, reached by a picturesque trail through the hummocks and hillsides of shaded woods.

Some of the petrified wood logs are whole, some have hollows, some are tree chunks, but all of them were once part of a primeval forest, transformed into enduring logs of stone.

The specimens are dated by the age of the soil layers in which they are found. They have been carefully examined by scientists.

Events leading to the preservation of the petrified logs began over 36 million years ago during the Oligocene Period.

The logs are not indigenous to their present location, but came as driftwood from the north.

This area was lowlands, where shifting rivers spread sand over plains and shores. Stranded here in a gigantic log-jam, the logs were preserved from decay by rapid burial in the sands carried by the waters.

Petrification took place during the ages by gradual infiltration of dissolved minerals, mainly silica.

Some of the stony logs have a gray lichen growth. some carry the wounds of water-wearing, some have odd shapes.

For example, one resembles a frog, one a "caveman's bench," and one is called "the giant."

Another, giant - size, is calculated to have been over 1,000 years old as a living tree.

The hills of the petrified forest are the highest in Madison County, being 360 feet above sea level. Here, natural erosion first exposed these prehistoric stone trees.

As time goes on, more erosion will uncover additional tree remains.

Stevenson's Island Is Now Resort

By Charles Lambelin
Reuter Correspondent

ISLE OF PINES, Cuba

The Island which inspired Robert Louis Stevenson to write his famous novel "Treasure Island" is today a resort for Cuban honeymoon couples and army officers.

The Isle of Pines, 50 miles south of Cuba, was developed originally as a playground for rich Americans and the plush El Colony Hotel even had its own private airstrip.

Just behind the notel three hills rise -- the same hills used in the novel to locate Long John Silver's treasure. The lobby is decorated with a huge fresco of Long John Silver with a parrot on his shoulder as he buries treasure in a cave.

But the island also has less attractive buildings, one being the huge "model penitenary" built in the early part of this century. It housed Premier Fidel Castro from 1953 to 1955 when he was a political prisoner of President Fulgencio Battista.

And in an effort to develop the semi-forgotten island Castro is planning a youth building program to erect dams and plant citrus trees.

The island was deserted by rich American vacationers after Castro came to power in 1959. But today huge billboards lining the route from the airport to the capital of Nueva Gerona advertise the new pioneer spirit of the island.

One shows a plough ripping through a field, another shows schoolchildren and men on horseback and others feature building workers.

Opposite the prison, which was closed a few years ago as it had given the island a bad name, a three-storey, brightly-painted high school overlooks a citrus plantation.

India Governors Live In Splendor

By Gerald Ratzin
Reuter Correspondent

NEW DELHI

While India is moving towards final abolition of the old princely order some extravangant vestiges of the days of British rule remain in the style of living of the state governors.

Housed in sumptuous mansions, surrounded by servants and aides, and with fleets of cars at their disposal, they are regarded by many as an anachronism in what is supposed to be a socialist society.

There are 17 state governors in all, and although precise figures are not always available, it probably costs an average of about $137,000 a year to maintain each of them.

The state government of Tamil Nadu suggested recently that the governor should move from the 257-acre Raj Bhavan (governor's house) that he at present occupies, to a more modest residence. But the change has been delayed while the central government in New Delhi works out a uniform policy for all governors.

"The average Indian has an income of 525 rupees ($72) per annum," it pointed out. "At least 250 million or our fellow countrymen (almost half the population) do not get a square meal a day. In every city, thousands sleep on pavements. Are these not enough to shock our conscience?"

Some governors have themselves cut back on the ostentatious living which seemed to be expected of them. Nawab Ali Yavar Jung of Maharashtra left 37 posts on his staff vacant as part of an economy drive.

He also did away with the railway cars he was entitled to used.

Nevertheless, the Raj Bhavan in Bombay with its 16 lavishly furnished buildings spread out over 45 acres, cost about 1,400,000 rupees ($192,000) in maintenance costs and salaries last year. This did not include the 1,500,000 rupees about $($207,000) the governor is entitled to spend on furnishings during his five-year term.

The state of Bihar has two Raj Vhavans, one in the capital, Patha, the other in the summer capital, Ranchi. The Ranchi house has 43 rooms and 64 acres of grounds.

A governor gets only 5,500 rupees ($750) a month in salary. But apart from allowances to cover his large staff and entertainment, he is entitled to the use of private aircraft and he and members of his family may import goods duty-free.

Around the Patna mansion is a sprawling 110-acre compound. The ground floor or the building holds the governor's office, library and a hall.

Lounges, reception rooms, dining halls and billiard rooms are on the first floor and above that are 12 air-conditioned bedrooms. The governor and his family use five and the other seven are reserved for guests.

It cost the state government about 800,000 rupees ($110,000) to look after the governor and all his trappings last year.

Even the relatively unpretentious governor's mansion at Bohopal in Madhya Pradesh, standing in just 10 acres of grounds, needed about 485,000 rupees ($65,000) in 1970. The building is about 100 years old and was built originally for the deputy British agent-general in the 19th century.

Citrus Trees Replace Penitentiary

By Charles Lambelin
Reuter Correspondent

ISLE OF PINES, Cuba

Citrus plantations tended by schoolchildren are beginning to dot this Cuban island as it undergoes a transformation from a penitentiary outpost to a primary achievement of Latin America's first socialist state.

The island, said to have been the model for Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," was the scene of a huge "model penitentiary" which house Prime Minister Fidel Castro from 1953 to 1955 when he was a political prisoner of President Fulgencio Battista.

The prison has long since been closed and the island has in recent years become a holiday resort for Cuban honeymoon couples and army officers.

But the main alterations began after Castro put communist youths in charge of development on what he called "youth island" four years ago.

Now about 30,000 acres of grapefruit, orange, lemon and mandarin trees have been planted and the target is to have about 100,000 acres under cultivation within the next two or three years.

Castro's answer to the problem of manpower was to use schoolchildren, and he estimated that by 1980, 30,000 to 35,000 of them would be needed on the island.

The present population of the Isle of Pines is only 30,000. Many schoolchildren have come from the main island, 50 miles away.

It's Only Human...

to Care

. . . about the well-being and future of family and friends, community and country.

Cooperatives are human—made up of people who, together, can do what one person cannot do alone.

There are big co-ops and little ones; marketing, purchasing and service co-ops. Co-ops that ship high-quality foodstuffs all over the world, co-ops that provide rural areas with electric power and telephone service, co-ops that furnish health care, credit, insurance, consumer goods and housing. All it takes to get a co-op going is a common need and a strong united determination to meet it.

Cooperatives look outward, too; they're involved in community development, improving the environment, broadening the base of opportunity for young and old . . .

The scoreless first quarter proved to be a defensive battle. Rickey Hill received the ball on the Connally 30-yard line. After a 15-yard penalty and several incomplete passes, Connally punted to the Cameron 48.

In the second quarter the Yoemen started a long drive from their own 30-yard line Will Turner passed to end Jackie Chubb for a 9 yard gain. For the invasion into Connally territory, Turner passed from the Yoe 40 to Chubb to the Connally 45 for a 15-yard gain.

With fourth and goal, Turner stepped across the goal line and flags were thrown. The penalty was against Connally and the Yoe score stood 6-0.

Jimmy Bailey kicked the extra point and Yoe led 7-6 with 5:28 remaining in the first half.

Connally's only touchdown came in the third quarter. Connally took the ball on their own 4-yard line. Bill Dunlap threw the ball to James Rhynes and he advanced to the Connally 40.

Dunlap once again took to the air and Connally was deep in Yoe territory. Dunlap scored but the try for a 2-point convension proved futile. Yoe still led 7-6.

In the fourth quarter Connally punted after an advance from their own 31 to the 50. Tim Loften kicked the ball to the Yoe 3.

Cameron then advanced from their own 3 to the Yoe 23, Chubb punting to the Connally 45. They left the ball on the Connally 46, and the Yoemen took over.

Cameron started their way toward the goal line from the Connally 40. At the 14 Whiteside went 6 yards. From the Cameron 4 Turner turned right end and crossed the goal line and claimed another touchdown for Cameron. Turner passed to Chubb for the conversion and the Yoemen led with 2:35 left on the clock.

Chubb kicked to the Connally 33. Dunlap showed his passing style and threw to Steve Heironimus to complete a gain of 15 yards. With inches needed for a first down Dunlap was tackled behind the line of scrimmage.

At the Yoe 46 Turner broke for the final touchdown. Donnie Tucker kicked for the conversion and the Yoe led, 22-6 with 35 seconds left in the game.

Turner led Yoemen rushing with 77 yards on 11 trips. Darrell Schneider, Randy Tumlinson, and Mike Trdy were defensive leaders. Chubb once again caught key passes.

This win makes 3 wins and one loss for the Yoemen.

Doors Of Yoe

By Marilyn Hauk

The major happening at Yoe High this week was the presentation given by Sheloom, a group brought to us by the American Touring Company. On Tuesday morning a show was given to the High School and Junior High School. That night they performed in the Yoe High Gym to the public. Reaction: Fantastic!

Maybe Patty Elsenburg has seemed quite "puffy" this week. Honestly, she's not just a grouch that pouts all the time. She's one of the poor souls that has experienced the agony of having wisdom teeth out. Don't laugh; you may be next!

Release from Mrs. Miller's office: We thought Elvis Presley was popular among girls. Its seems that our new teacher, Mr. Mathews, also has a fan club which meets every morning before school.

Pierced ears can sometimes be a real hassle. Talk to Georgann Wilkerson and Cindy Thweatt. They took a giant step and Georgann's ear ring left its nesting place and landed in her lap. How do you tell your teacher you're crying because your earlobe hurts? Very carefully.

Grasshoppers. They are good to fish with, they're interesting to chase, they're different to read about, but they are NO fun to disect. Mr. Mathews chased his girls all around the room with a grasshopper. Did you catch anything?

Mark Monroe has a new hobby. He tried his luck at babysitting this week. How did it go, Mark?

Chemists have created all sorts of concoctions to aid insominia. I have a feeling that our chemistry teacher, Mrs. Nance, is ready for something to bring on insominia.

Class officers for Yoe High School have been announced.

Freshman president is Gary Hornung; Kenneth Pinchback, vice president; Paula Perkins, secretary; Gene Kopriva, treasurer; and Linda Coleman, reporter.

Yoes-Yoes Blank R-L 8th Graders

The Cameron Yoe-Yoes 8th grade defeated the Rosebud-Lott 8th grade 26-0 Thursday night.

In the middle of the first quarter the Yoe-Yoes made their first touchdown. After a ground drive Jofus White passed to Frank Tena for the score.

Again in the second quarter Jofus White took to the air and Frank Tena scored again. Halftime score was 14-0.

In third quarter play Dennis Hollas completed a quarterback sneak for the third touchdown.

The last score came when Steve Lewis drove in from three yards out. Final score was 26-0.

Cameron scored on the first play of scrimmage with Gregory Kelly running about 65 yards. Due to a clipping penalty the touchdown was called back.

Rosebud-Lott scored in the first and third quarters.

Cameron's only score came when Valenta Remeinz faked a punt and ran about 53 yards for the score.
